Dan Reid
Colossians 3:18-4:6

1. Dan began his sermon reminding us of Paul's exhortation to stay grounded in who we are in Christ. What would this look like for you?
2. The passage dives into the roles of a wife, husband, and child in the Christian household. Where do you find yourself in these roles, and what examples have you had as role models?
3. How does knowing Christ's voluntary submission to the Father, and what a biblical submission is, give you a better understanding of what the word "submit" means in the context of the text?
4. The importance of submitting to Christ as our highest authority was reviewed. Would you say this is true for you, or what steps can you take to make it so?
5. Dan emphasized how we have limited time here on earth, and to utilize it wisely, especially to outsiders. How does this pertain to you?
6. We were encouraged to, "be the means by which you offer yourself to God and to reach the world for Jesus Christ" in our "prayers, lifestyle, and speech." What action steps can you take to do this in the coming week?

7. The main idea of the sermon was, "Because I'm in Christ, I'm relevant." How can you internalize and remind yourself of this? How can this group be praying for you?
